soon to be real
and when we learn to teach we'll listen to them
cutting down the barb wire fences yet shooting each other unnaturally
they fall one by one
what a silly game

even next door
who needs
what we take for granted
what we discard
it hurts the heart

Mackin Leads Troubled Student Senate; Establishes Hung Inter-Club Council

Senior privileges and student responsibility were the main emphasis of the first semester Student Senate. Students received more privileges this year than ever before. To help prepare juniors and seniors for college life, all study periods became optional.

The senate was opened to all students and teachers wishing to voice their opinions and an Inter-Club Council and Finance Commission, made up of all club presidents and led by Vice President Jim Hudak, was also formed.

This year's senate initiated Spirit Week drew good response from the student body. The highlight of the week proved to be the talent show where students exhibited unrealized abilities in the Friday afternoon assembly.

The senate, led by President David Mackin, was kept lively with the friction between underclassmen and seniors. Scott Duncan, Kurt Koehler, and Dick Cheek led the faction of underclassmen feeling that the seniors held too many senate voting posts, but the seniors quickly voted the motion down.

Adjournment Hands Senate Death-Blow

With the passage of the Boogaard Resolution, the student senate died, along with the suspension of the constitution. A constitution committee headed by Ed Condon banded together to establish a new form of government in six weeks. A myriad of ideas swirled about the discussion table like the creation of a plebiscite government and a thought of club president rule.

The purpose of the committee was to make an active, imaginative student government. The outcome made the senate a member of the interclub council, removed the fiscal matters from it, and left this body to consider student activities. But all came to naught as, "in the opinion of the office," not enough students had read the constitution to make any valid judgements.

Parent Organization Stresses Contact

Interesting speakers and coordination of many school functions were centers of activity for the Parent's Club, led by President Edward Vranizan, Vice-President Robert Merz, Treasurer Lou Kleffner, and Secretary Nancy Adamson. It added to its freshman acquaintance program with a Mothers' Tea. The Mardi Gras, Spaghetti Dinner, and Auction occupied most of the time along with almost unknown services such as cleaning the chapel, mending vestments, and helping at football games.

Four speakers expounded on various topics at the business meetings. Jud Blakely, a Vietnam marine vet, came to speak on causes of campus unrest, Archbishop Dwyer discussed the "shock" of social problems and the apathy of the general populace. Policeman Dave Bishop spoke on drug problems in the Portland area and was extremely well received. Finally, Dr. Giammattio, a psychologist, eloquently expressed his views on the pertinent area of parent to teenager communication.

Drama Club Initiates Theatrics With Farce

Jesuit's Thespians opened in October with their production of Woody Allen's "Don't Drink the Water," a satire on U.S. foreign policy.

The setting of this contemporary comedy was a U.S. embassy behind the Iron Curtain where a touring American family, the Hollanders, took refuge when accused of espionage by the Communist police. Ambassador Magee, away in Washington, had left his son, Axel, in charge of the embassy. Comedy followed as the Hollanders changed the peaceful atmosphere of the embassy into pandemonium, mixing business and romance to come up with a final desperate escape for all, including Axel Magee.

Scott Bowie played Axel Magee and Shawn Roddy was his sweet Susan Hollander, with George Green and Jeni Dames as her bickering parents. Bill Campbell was cast as the power-hungry secretary, Mr. Kilroy, who was constantly badgered by an insane priest, Tim Nashif, and gestapo sergeant, Jerry Adamson.

Drama Effort Crescendoes In 'Hello Dolly' Creation

When work began in December on Jesuit's musical "Hello Dolly," success seemed remote. Director Mr. Tom Bunnell, S.J., producer Mr. Peter Davis, S.J., and a cast and crew of over 200 surprised everyone and put on five standing-room-only performances.

Aiding Bunnell and Davis were stage manager Ray Mir abella, coordinator of backstage work, and ass't. director Bill Campbell, who helped mold performers' parts.

Tryouts in January resulted with a talented cast as all had hoped. The plot centered around Dolly Levi (Geri Gell), the cunning yet industrious matchmaker who traps Horace Vandergelder (Jerry Martin and Jim Hudak) into marriage. Vandergelder's employees, Cornelius Hackel (Paul Mack and Ed Polich) and Barnaby Tucker (Scott Bowie) filled the play with pandemonium.

Choreography was done by Marni Mahaffey, assisted by Bill Schaeffer. Candy Genheimer was musical director while Jesuit's drama mother Terry O'Hanlon organized the elaborate costume design.

Moderated by Mr. Hidaka, S.J. and Mr. Hansen, the Rhetores promoted the speaking ability of its predominantly underclass members. Hard work came through as the young debaters stole early victories at Tigard, Gresham, and Canby.

Crusader Cashes In On Apathetic Classes

Instigation of a new policy of greater student participation was the objective of editors Dave Smith, Paul DeChant, and John Wehrly under occasional assistance and moderation by Advisor Mr. Tom Bunnell, S.J.

Numerous changes both in content of the newspaper and the Crusader office gained student interest in this publication. Students spoke out expressing their interest by writing letters to the editor, speaking out in the "Viewpoint" column and contributing jokes to the revived "Brevia Scripta."

'On With The Revolution'

Fr. Ron Funke, S.J., and editor-in-chief Brandt Henderson led the Troubador in its bloodless revolution. Challenging the traditional forms of the literary "Establishment," a complete revamping of the book provided a new setting for the poems, essays, and short stories contributed by the students for publication.

The revolution ran into financial difficulties when the Troubador was attacked by "far-right" Student Senate members demanding to know why the Troubador had to receive "welfare" money each year from the senate. After weeks of senate debate, this crisis was resolved, and the literary revolution ended successfully.

Service Club Caters To Numerous Events

This year, as in the past, the Service Club has done its job in helping to make successful various activities of Jesuit High School, under the direction of its new moderator Brother Larry Siep and President John Bailey.

The responsibilities of the Service Club consist of acting as ushers at games and plays, and serving for the various dinners and banquets held during the year. Preparing the gymnasium for the social and athletic events is another task of the Service Club.

Service Club members, comprised of juniors and seniors, did an exceptionally good job of handling the large Metro League crowds that attended home football and basketball games at Lewis and Clark as well as at Jesuit.

National Honor Society Moderator Fr. Beezer and President Dave Smith led this group of scholars in working on such school events as the candy sale, the open house, and the auction.

This year's candy sale provided funds for two new computer terminals for the math department. It also helped to garner the money for some new chemistry and biology lab equipment.

At the open house NHS members volunteered their services to show parents and prospective students around and about the Jesuit campus. NHS manpower was utilized as spotters and movers for the auction whose goal was to pay for the rest of the Science Wing.

Fasting Sodality Helps Food Drive

Under the direction of its new moderator Mr. Peter Davis, S.J., and student leaders Ron Boogaard, Tom Culhane, Brandt Henderson, and Bill Burns, the Sodality launched its Christmas food drive with a startling innovation, a weekend fast. About twenty students participated in the fast, which brought in about one half of the food that Jesuit Sodalists distributed to needy families throughout the Portland area.

In addition to working on the food drive, Sodality members visited the young patients at Doernbecker Hospital where they broke up monotonous hospital life with games and lively talk.

With the help of Bill Ratliffe, Bob Minor, Greg Wolfe, John Lamb, Jerry Adamson, and George La Du, the first underclassman to earn a spot on the varsity rally squad, the crowds cheered the football team to a 9-1 season.

The spring squad, composed of Steve Barsotti, Jeff Dulcich, Dennis Hennessy, Paul Mack, Bill Burns, Jim Hudak, and oft used alternate, Dave Mackin, kept the fans screaming with their antics, the favorite being throwing the 200 lb. Barsotti some 15 feet into the air. Although his landings were not always two-point, Barsotti managed to survive the long season.

O'Brien Creativity Invades Poster Club

Activities such as games, plays, and dances were advertised by the Poster Club, led by moderator Fr. Frank Burke, S.J., President Dick O'Brien, and company. The posters, usually composed of witty sayings which decorated the otherwise barren school halls, were taped on doors, windows, walls and even ceilings.

Creativity was well expressed as the talented brushmen displayed their works of art during such events as Spirit Week, the spaghetti dinner, and the all-city dance. The Poster Club also contributed time and supplies to the ASB elections and the Drama Club productions.

Hard Work Profits Flashy Photo Club

Advisor Fr. Patrick Sharp, S.J., Kevin LaHaie, and George Green led the Photo Club in a full year of activities. Besides recording the year's events for the Speculum and Crusader, they accomplished many other deeds such as cooperating with the Mass Media English class for specialty photography.

The Photo Club submitted numerous sports shots to local newspapers such as the Oregonian, the Oregon Journal, and the Valley Times. Sharp's shooters were also active in the open house. Here they showed the artistic side of photography, exhibiting many of their best pictures. They also operated the closed circuit television system which became a new part of the Photo Club this year. Chessmen Check In For State Tourney Formed last year through the efforts of Kurt Nelson, the Chess Club, moderated by Fr. Greg Steiner, S.J., competed for the first time in organized play. Mel Ivey, Chris Tento, Dave Lamb, Mike Sherrin, and Kurt Nelson led the young club to a successful year. The team finished third in Metro, placing them in the state tournament. There they earned a 2-4 record, giving them fourteenth place.

Metro Powers Put To Test As Crusaders Meet New Challengers

Long has the Metro League been known as a tough, if not the toughest high school athletic division in Oregon. Its high caliber competition has traditionally overshadowed the other AAA leagues. Jesuit, perennial champions of the "weak" Wilco League, has, in the opinions of critics and coaches, lacked real competition. Many people have wondered if the Crusaders could survive in the powerful Metro. A convenient settlement to this mild discrepancy came this year when the OSAA regrouped the complete interscholastic spectrum. As a result, the revamped Metro League included Jesuit. After a decade of dominance, the Green Machine's ability to vanquish the opponent continued throughout the 1970 Metro League football season.

Lakers, Rams Fall in First Half

Gridiron battles under General Allen began with a convincing 27-12 victory over ex-TVY leaguer Lake Oswego. In this, Jesuit's initiation to the Metro League, senior tailback Dennis Hennessy grabbed the spotlight with 143 yards rushing and a pair of touchdowns to send him on his way to the league scoring title.

The pressure of league competition was alleviated the following Friday when Madison of the Portland Interscholastic League visited Cronin Field. Led by ex-Jesuit JV quarterback Mike Bennison, the Senators were shutout by the Crusaders' staunch defense, while the Green Machine racked up a 23-0 victory.

Last year's holy war between Jesuit and Central Catholic in the state basketball tourney was renewed at Cronin Field in an emotional and well-matched contest. In desperation the Crusaders scored three touchdowns in ten minutes to overcome an eleven point Central lead, thus pulling out a 24-14 decision.

The following week Jesuit traveled to Hillsboro, where Denny Hennessy romped for over 200 yards on the ground while tallying three more TD's, toward a 33-0 shutout of the Spartans.

Jesuit's hopes of a league title were thwarted when the Crusaders fell to a fired-up Sunset squad. Although down at halftime, 3-0, the Apollos capitalized on three Jesuit fumbles, handing the Green Machine its first league loss since 1966.

Crusaders Humiliate Scots, 41-0

Aloha unfortunately faced an awesome Green Machine primed by the recent loss to Sunset. The offensive line, Taylor, Angelo, Dulcich, Brock, and Lanagan opened gaping holes in the Warrior line resulting in 333-37 yards rushing. Barsotti and Hennessy each contributed a pair of touchdowns towards the 41-14 victory.

The Crusaders lambasted tough David Douglas 41-0 the following Friday. In the greatest night of his career Dennis Hennessy powered his way for 211 yards rushing for three TD'S. Also contributing to the Scot's downfall was a brilliant defensive effort which allowed only two David Douglas first downs.

The showdown with Beaverton took place a week later at Cronin. Hennessy again romped on the home turf, scoring two touchdowns in a 68-16 victory. Steve Barsotti and Greg Bauer tallied a pair of six pointers for the Crusaders and Phil Kies ran for two. The Beavers, however, showed some life as they scored twice against Jesuit's second team in the fourth quarter.

Parkrose, Jesuit's old rival in the Wilco League, came to Crusaderland for the final game of the season. The contest marked the final performance for Rick Angelo, Dennis Hennessy, John Lanagan, Steve Barsotti, Paul Machtolf, and all the other seniors playing football for the last time in the Green and Gold ranks. With this inspiration the seniors spurred the Crusaders to a 26-0 victory. Hennessy wrapped up the scoring title, chalking up two more touchdowns while rushing for 215 yards, while the "wild bunch" carried the defense to its fourth shutout.

Crusaders Land Three Players On All-State Squad, Six All-League

Leadership so dominated the 1970 squad that three captains were chosen for the first time in Jesuit's football history, Rick Angelo, Steve Barsotti, and Denny Hennessy. Three Crusaders made first team All-State: center Pete Brock (the state squad's only junior), guard Rick Angelo, and back Denny Hennessy. Hennessy was also the only unanimous choice for the All-Metro team. End Tom Wynne, defensive end Steve Barsotti, and defensive guard John Lanagan were also selected as all-league representatives.

Two new coaches came to Jesuit this year to help with the assignments on the field. Coach Dick Gedrose was the offensive line coach for the Crusaders. Coach Gedrose, a '60 graduate of Jesuit, was football and track coach at Jackson High School in Portland last year. Frank Hawley, a graduate of the University of Idaho, became the Crusaders' new defensive line coach. Hawley coached at Idaho and also at David Douglas as the JV mentor.

After concluding a successful first Metro season, the Crusaders held their annual football banquet. Denny Hennessy was awarded the most valuable player trophy, with best blocker going to Rick Angelo. Steve Barsotti, Jim Hudak, and Randy Taylor received most inspirational, most improved defensive back, and most improved lineman honors, respectively. Senior quarterback Paul Machtolf won the most improved during the off-season award.

Freshmen Destroy Opponents In Undefeated Football Campaign

The Mini-Brute Green Machine dominated its Metro opponents for an impressive 6-0 record. The frosh excelled on offense and defense, winning each contest by an average of 22 points.

The Crusaders began their campaign with a convincing 20-6 romp over the Hillsboro Spartans. The "Blue Flame," Joe Cantil, scored twice from his halfback position. Kelly Doherty, third member of a dynasty of Doherty quarterbacks at Jesuit, flipped a pass to flanker back Jim Goettle for the final score.

Doherty piloted his potent offense to a 30-12 victory over cross-town rivals, Central Catholic, the following week. Inspired backs Joe Cantil and Dan Hanna each tallied two touchdowns, and quickback Ron McGee added six for the Green and Gold.

The stingy defense, led by Mike Sergent, Ron Metz, Buzz Quinlan, John Meagher, and Steve Webster, held two powerful teams scoreless, while the offense continued its attack, dumping David Douglas and Parkrose by identical 26-0 scores.

The freshmen had their biggest might against Fremont Junior High, ending the season with a 42-6 score. Joe Cantil and Dan Hanna spearheaded the running game, each scoring twice, while a Kelly Doherty to Pat Keltey reception added six points.

Inexperience Trips Harriers

Jesuit's cross country team, coached by Fr. Frank Burke, S.J., found their inexperience a major obstacle to a successful Metro season. Many of their competitors ran all year round, putting them in better condition than the Crusaders, who were limited to training only during the actual cross country season.

Although bolstered by the return of three-year letterman Jeff Lawson, the Green and Gold thinclads still failed to flash their colors up front often enough to finish ahead of such rivals as Lake Oswego, Parkrose, and Hillsboro. After a one-point loss to Beaverton, the determined Crusaders looked to young Aloha for victory in a triple meet which also included the Sunset Apollos. Falling one-point short of Sunset, they toppled the Warriors of Aloha with Jeff Lawson and Joe Culhane finishing 1-2 for Jesuit, as was the case throughout the season.

Other harriers lending support to seniors Jeff Lawson and Joe Culhane included senior Tom Culhane, who showed good consistency in his second year on varsity, and junior Chris Galluzzo. Two-year letterman John Wehrly, a junior, averaged fourth place for the Jesuit club and sophomores John Mayo and Butch Paulson, first-year lettermen, completed the varsity.

Juniors Jon Edens and George Filz, both injured early in the season, Todd Dignan and Pat Donaghue comprised the JV.

Crusaders Miss State Tourney For First Time In Five Years

As the fans filed out of the Memorial Coliseum after the final game of the 1970 A-1 Oregon High School Basketball Tournament, one could hear the common words of speculation: "Wait until next year." The Jesuit High Crusaders, a cinderella team not expected to make it to the 1970 state tournament, fooled everyone and finished second.

Shortly after last year's tournament, an American high school basketball magazine predicted that Jesuit would finish first in Oregon in 1970, ranked the talented Crusaders twenty-fourth nationally. Because of Jesuit's second-place finish with four underclass starters in 1970, the Oregon AAA pre-season polls unanimously picked them as the top team in state. The Metro League coaches concluded that the ex-Wilco Leaguers would be the team to beat. However, the Crusaders were entering a new league of traditionally strong basketball teams.

The stage was set. On paper, Jesuit had everything in their favor. However, for the first time in five years under Gordon Carrigan, the Crusaders were missed at the Glass Palace.

Jesuit Shares First Half Lead

The number one Crusaders got off to a shaky start at Lewis and Clark's Pamplin Sports Center. In a four-way jamboree, Jesuit placed a disappointing third, victorious over Rex Putnam, but losing to South Salem and Grant in ten-minute contests.

With a 4-2 pre-season record, Jesuit lost its number one status. The Crusader's first Metro game raised the spirit of wary fans with a 62-45 whitewash of the Hillsboro Spartans.

In the next four games, Jesuit got a taste of the high-caliber competition of the Metro League. The Crusaders edged Lake Oswego in a defensive battle, 36-35. At Parkrose, the foul line was Jesuit's downfall as the Broncos came out on top 56-55. In a third straight one point game, Jesuit nipped Sunset 76-75. One point victory number three came against David Douglas. Jesuit rallied from a 63-49 deficit, after the torrid Scotts hit sixteen straight baskets, and tied the game at the end of the regulation time, 71-71. With 13 seconds left in overtime, Greg Bauer converted a lay-in, and quick-handed Greg Vanderzanden stole the Scot's inbound pass. The final score, Jesuit, 79-78. Kevin Doherty took game honors with 22 points.

Coming off the emotional victory over Douglas, Jesuit handed Beaverton a 78-61 setback. Next, Central Catholic came to Lewis and Clark hoping to break the ice in the Holy War series. The Rams led all the way in a 61-52 victory. The Crusaders finished up the first half at 6-2, which tied them for first with David Douglas and Sunset, by beating Aloha 69-52.

Sunset Eliminates Crusaders

Although the Crusaders had two losses going into the second half of the 1970-71 season, a berth in the state tournament was still in the picture. There were no signs of pressure, however, when Jesuit took on Hillsboro at home. The Crusaders showed good teamwork with a consistent offense in a 72-49 clouting of the Spartans, With the previous loss to Jesuit in overtime, David Douglas erased some of the Crusader's tournament hopes by outscoring them 49-40. On Lake Oswego's home court, Jesuit was shocked by Al Arthur and Company, 63-41.

The Crusaders again lost at the foul line to Parkrose, drawing so many whistles that the Broncos scored 25 points on free throws alone. Tim O'Connor's 21 points were in vain as Parkrose took the honors, 59-50. Against Sunset, Coach Carrigan employed a very effective slow up offense gaining a 9 point lead with less than two minutes remaining. But the Apollos picked away at the lead until, with 13 seconds left, Sunset pulled out a 38-37 victory, crushing all of Jesuit's tournament chances. With nothing left but pride, the Crusaders evened things up with Central Catholic with a 76-70 victory. Bauer chipped in 19, while surprising sophomore Dave Zimel had 15.

The Jesuit student body said farewell at the Aloha game to senior ball players Mitch Leary, Greg VanderZanden, Bill Brands, Jack Golden, and Tom Apa. The crowd gave senior Tim O'Connor a standing ovation when his name was announced. Scoring a career high of 37 points "Otis" (Tim O'Connor) finished the season with an 18.4 point average, beating Sunset's Rick Clark's average by 1.3 points in a closely fought season long race for the Metro League Scoring Title.

Not everything went wrong for the Crusaders. Both Tim O'Connor and Greg Bauer landed on the All-League team, while Kevin Doherty made honorable mention. O'Connor's fine season was rewarded with a second team all-state rating.

Returning Starters Boost JV's To Respectable 16-6 Finish

Under the direction of first-year hoop coach Frank Hawley, the talented and experienced 1970-71 JV basketball team racked up an impressive 16-6 record against their Metro League opponents. During the season, the Crusaders soundly defeated Central Catholic, David Douglas, and Sunset twice each.

A major factor in the team's success was the return of Bob Sharp, Joe Walsh, Bob Schommer, Mike Mitchell, and Pete Brock, all of whom had had strong sophomore years on the JV's, to the 70-71 squad. Their junior varsity experience gave the team an overall consistency. Sophomores Mike Nugent, Mike Spieker, Randy Grout, Bob Grundy, and Mike Goettel, gave the JV's added scoring and stout defense throughout the year. In Jesuit's first basketball season of the decade, a disappointing varsity year was offset by a fine junior varsity season.

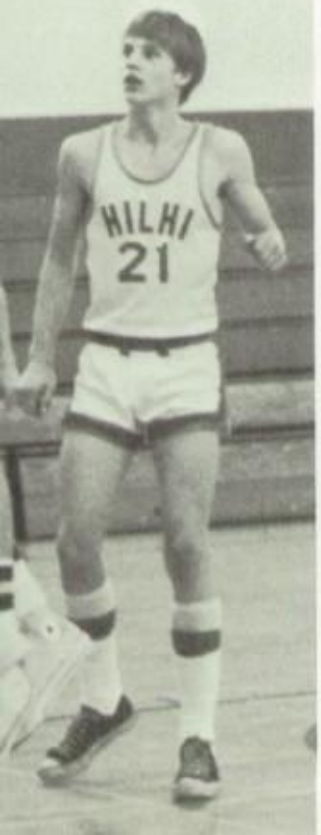
Torrid Shooting, Loose Defense Mark Frosh Basketball Season

Coach Terry Ennis' second freshman basketball season was as much a success as his first. This year's squad, composed mainly of the upperclassmen's younger brothers, finished the season with eight wins against six losses. Although the frosh were inconsistent on defense throughout the year, a high-scoring offense, led by sharpshooters Kelly Doherty, Ron McGee, Rob Metz and Joe Cantil, averaged just below sixty points per game.

Individually, the frosh had consistent double-figure performances from Kelly Doherty, Ron McGee, and Rob Metz, while Joe Cantil, Pat Kelty, Dan Self, and John Meagher added the extra scoring punch. In an exciting fun-and-gun contest at Waluga Jr. High, the frosh offensive power was exemplified by the team's 95 points, led by Doherty's 32 points. However, the lack of defense contributed to a two-point loss, 97-95.



Two frosh cagers attempt to out-muscle Hillsboro opponent for rebound.

New Diamond Draws Spectators, Gives Baseball Added Dimension

Unprecented interest in Crusader baseball this year resulted from the addition of a home field to Jesuit's campus. Jesuit, led by fourth-year baseball coach Terry Ennis, struggled to a 6-10 league record, although the overall season was 16-10. Catcher Tom Apa, first baseman Mitch Leary, and pitchers Bill Ratliffe and Steve Cassidy were three-year veterans.

Inconsistency was the password for the green and gold. Junior hurler Tim Self, for example, shutout Beaverton, 10-0, then gave up 13 runs to Lake Oswego a few days later. Despite team inconsistency, Jesuit had a strong infield, made up of junior Kelly O'Halloran at third, speedy junior Mitch Fearing at shortstop, sophomore Gary Brugato at second, and powerful sophomore Dave Zimel backing up Mitch Leary at first. Juniors Kevin Doherty, Pat Fogarty, Steve Ludeman and sophomore Bob Niehaus put together the outfield and were solid hitters at the plate.

The threat of a sudden throw to Dave Zimel keeps opposing runner wary.

Untested Cindermen Plagued By Lack Of Depth, Disinterest

Jesuit High track suffered the worst season in Crusader history by being affected by a rash of student apathy. This year's squad accepted eight straight losses, finishing next to last in the rainy Metro Relays. However, there were a few individuals who supplied the points for the hapless green and gold tracksters. Senior pole vaulter Paul Machtolf consistently won his event with a career best of 13.1", good for second in the Metro. Strongman Rick Angelo had a season best of 166'5" in the javelin. Supersoph Elton Moore, all 6'-240 pounds of him, was a double threat with bests of 51'6½" in the shot put and 138'-10" in the discus, getting by with a little help from Pete Brock in the shot. In track events, junior Tony Obradovich proved his worth in the 440 dash, while Randy Grout, Greg Bauer, Pete Fagan, and Mark Unger showed promise for next year.

Golf Team Misses Playoffs; Chapman Takes State With 145

Led by three year lettermen Rocky Chapman and Bill Brands, the '71 golf team had another winning season under new coach Fr. Frank Burke, S.J. After a heartbreaking disqualification at Metro Invitational, the varsity conquered 12 of 17 opponents.

The Crusaders played close to par throughout the season. Chapman and Brands averaged 37 and 39 strokes respectively, while Mike Corrigan, John and Jim DeCosta, and Brian Dempsey all averaged 40. With these averages, Jesuit entered district as slight favorites. However, Central Catholic, a surprise team in the tourney, nipped Jesuit and Lake Oswego by one stroke. In the playoff for second the Lakers burned the Glendoveer Course for a two under par 146, six strokes ahead of Jesuit.

Individually, the Crusaders fared well at the state tournament. Rocky Chapman, shot a three under par 145 to top everyone at Glendoveer for the championship. Brian Dempsey, who shot a two over par 150, missed the all-state team by one stroke.

Siep's Slopesters Grab State Brass At Ashland In First Year

Interest in skiing has increased every year at Jesuit, and this year the skiers decided to form a team. Well, this decision paid off, for the 1971 Jesuit High ski team, moderated by Brother Larry Siep, took the state championship trophy. The Crusaders were represented at Mt. Ashland by seniors John Grout, Jack Younie, and Tony Case and by sophomores Ron Taylor, Conrad Zevely, and Pete Fagan. Individuals have also shown great promise for next year, as Conrad and John Zevely, PNSA stars, stole first and second out of 150 at the Anthony Lakes Downhill. With such returnees, plus Wade Younie, Kurt Koehler, Ron Taylor and Pete Fagan, it could be two in a row at Ashland.

Without two-year senior lettermen John Nava, Jeff Ware, and Dave Ierulli, this year's Jesuit tennis team started the season young and inexperienced. Despite this loss of manpower, Jesuit's 1971 netmen finished the short season 7-4. Behind the singles play of Mike and Rob Metz, Mr. Erickson's Crusaders enjoyed a six-match winning streak, after losses to Beaverton, Sunset, and Lake Oswego. Providing the points along with the Metz brothers were Dan Ware, Greg Melcher, Stu Follen, Dan O'Neal, and rookies Dave Minden, Dick Whittemore, Bob Tewksberry.

After a successful season in the Metro, the Crusaders traveled to Washington Park and finished second in district. At the state tourney, Jesuit's Metz duo teamed up for the first time and tied for third in doubles at Mt. Hood Community College.

Biology took on a new look as it entered the new science wing. The class, with labs previously held at St. Mary's Academy in Portland, were now made open to students at all times during and after school. A second year biology course, taught by Fr. Greg Steiner, S.J. was added to the science program.

Fr. Arnold Beezer, S.J.'s chem study and advanced chemistry classes were also moved to the spacious science wing. During the year, the chemistry department received such added equipment as a Mettler balance scale and a flame photometer. The latter was given on loan by the University of Oregon Medical School.

Frosh Grammar Needed For Soph Composition

Under the able hand of Fr. Edward McTighe, S.J. incoming freshmen received a firm background of the basics of the English language. His time-proven approach included the fundamentals of grammar, as well as a smattering of such famous poetry as "The Highwayman" and "The Raven" and classics such as The Adventures of Tom Sawyer and Treasure Island.

This background was utilized in the sophomore year, as Mr. Robert Erickson, S.J. taught his classes introductory composition. Here he concentrated on both the development and organization of paragraphs and themes. To further strengthen the first year foundation, Mr. Erickson used a weekly vocabulary builder to increase his students' descriptive abilities.

Mini-Courses Present Fresh English Thought

The traditional methods of teaching, "reading, writing, and 'rithmetic," were challenged as the English department, headed by Fr. David Olivier, S.J. arranged the usually separated junior and senior classes into a homologous union of students attending six and twelve-week mini-courses. These classes were taught by English faculty members qualified in each field.

Juniors were required to take introduction to drama for six weeks, introduction to fiction for a twelve-week period, and the six-week style in composition class. The final two six weeks were open for them to choose from a wide variety of elective courses.

Seniors were required to take two six-week long classes, the research paper and introduction to Shakespeare. The remaining four grading periods were open for any electives not previously taken.

French, German Focus Overshadows Classics

Three changes were made this year in the classical language department headed by Fr. David King, S.J. First was the addition of a new teacher, Mr. Terry Hanson, who taught French I and Latin II. Second was the reinstatement of Latin III, and, strangely enough, some Latin scholars even expressed a desire for Latin IV. The final change was making the formerly compulsory frosh Latin classes optional, allowing more than half of them to take either French or German.

French and German courses, headed by Modern Language Advisor Fr. Patrick Sharp, S.J. emphasized all forms of language learning; speaking, through extensive use of the language lab, as well as learning to read and write the Romance languages. French, the predominant language taught, utilized the abilities of three instructors: Mrs. Colette Herrick, Fr. With the reduction of the offered history classes to two came reactions ranging from glee to disappointment. This year, the formerly required two year ancient and modern European history course was deleted to a sophomore year requirement. The class was taught by Mr. Richard Gedrose, a comprehensive teacher of ancient and modern history. Mr. Gedrose attempted to teach students to note history being made around them through weekly current events discussion.

Religion Concentrates On New Slant: People

Improvement of the individaul as a person, rather than Catholic indoctrination was the focus of the religion department, under coordinator Fr. David Olivier, S.J. as it taught the need for Christian attitudes to solve the social problems of today. During the four years, all students learned not only Christian and Catholic beliefs, but also those of other faiths.

Freshman and sophomore classes consisted of a background of the Old and New Testaments, and their applications, the background being taught to the frosh by Fr. David King, S.J. while the applications were brought to bear in either Fr. Patrick Sharp, S.J.'s or Fr. Thomas Healy, S.J.'s sophomore classes. Fr. Olivier's junior year centered around personal relationships. Mr. Peter David, S.J. and Mr. David Meyers taught the senior contemporary problems classes sporadically, at times involved with current issues, at times somewhat disorganized for lack of specific text.

Coaches Pocket Battles; Lose Scrappy Campaigns

Let the record books speak for themselves. Head football coach Mr. John Allen has tallied a 43-1 league record for the last five years. Coaches Mr. Terry Ennis, Mr. Richard Gedrose, and Mr. Frank Hawley helped Allen gain an 8-1 first year Metro showing.

Mr. Gordon Carrigan's genius has sent his basketball squads to the state tourney for the last four years, this year being nosed out by Sunset and David Douglas.

Bro. Larry Siep, S.J.'s ski team took the state championship. Mr. Ennis' baseball team played on Jesuit's new field and worked its way to a respectable showing. Track, a misnomer in many students' eyes as spring football training, suffered a lack of participants, leaving Coach Allen with a winless season.

MRS. VIRGINIA ERICKSON, Office Secretary

Exacting Jobs Demand First-Rate Secretaries

Everyday school office responsibilities, as well as special assignments, were shouldered by new secretary Mrs. Virginia Erickson. Her duties ranged from typing students' transcripts to signing admittance slips.

Mrs. Jane Miller again assisted Fr. Michael Merriman, S.J. with "The Greatest Auction on Earth." Mrs. Miller's efforts to procure auctionable items benefitted the school's biggest fund raising event.

Besides being Fr. Frank Masterson, S.J.'s secretary, Mrs. Betty Germann aided the auction by addressing envelopes and letters to prospective buyers and donors.

The difficult job of trying to please everybody all of the time fell on a number of cooks, until the dynamic duo of Betty Beihn and Agnes Hergert was found. They realized that the job of giving the faculty a fodderfest every night was an unending one.

Two new custodians joined the Jesuit staff this year, Mr. Robert Marion and Mr. Del Molden, pitching in to help Mr. Jack Myers with the job of keeping the school clean and in perfect running condition. Bro. Darrell Pharmer, S.J. and Bro. Ignatius Jakes, S.J. continued to work on the upkeep of the Crusader grounds, and help the custodians whenever possible. Mr. Irish O'Brien, otherwise known as Mr. Machine, continued to service the cafeteria's vending machines.

Brands, Mackin Honored; Two Seniors All-State

Most members of the '71 class excelled in at least one activity during their years at Jesuit. There were some whose achievements distinguished them above all others. They received not only school-wide, but also state and national acclaim.

Four seniors were selected National Merit Finalists. These students, Bill Brands, Paul Brown, Vince Rigert, and Dave Smith, were among the top one-half per cent of all graduating seniors taking the National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test.

Paul Brown and Jeff Dulcich were chosen to represent Jesuit at Beaver Boy's State in the summer of 1970 at Corvallis.

Only eleven football players made the Oregon Journal's AAA All-State Team. Two of these were Jesuit's, running back Denny Hennessy and guard-linebacker Rick Angelo. Angelo was also selected to play on the 1971 Metro Shriner's All-Star Team.

More Responsibilities Stir Brisk Enthusiasm

While gaining experience and wit, members of the senior class successfully completed their four-year hitch at Jesuit. Over the course of these years seniors saw many old standards fall. Students were given the option of wearing jean cut cords instead of slacks. Hair and sideburns reached previously unforeseen lengths. Seniors received the priviledge of open campus during free periods, much to the dismay of some teachers. As the senior class tried their own variations of these reduced restrictions, they made a trying experience for the office to enforce the regulations.

The upperclassmen found many ways to beat the boredom of class. Frisbee football and parking-lot basketball became the unofficial fall and spring sports. Seniors played a big part in Jesuit's drama success, "Hello Dolly." Hours on the ski slopes paid off as three Jesuit seniors were on the state championship team. Weekend nights became the standard time to have social gatherings at various students' homes. While looking forward to the end of high school, many seniors realized that Jesuit hadn't been all that bad.

Frosh — Embryonic Sophs

Though maybe not big, one hundred and forty-seven freshmen proved they could handle the task of life at Jesuit.

The freshman football team, lead by Joe Cantil, Dan Hanna and Mark Zimel produced a 6-0 season, extending their unbeaten string to thirty games. The basketball team, powered by standouts Kelly Doherty, Dan Self, and Ron McGee, was spurred on by the first organized frosh cheerleaders in JHS history, made up of Dan Hanna, Nat Heines, D.J. Mayer, Tim Hennessy, Mike Grace, and Bob Tennant.

Not only in sports were the frosh outstanding. Tony D' Angelo starred as a courier in Jesuit's play, "Don't Drink The Water." D'Angelo, Pete Oettinger, Joe Ritacco, and Jim Wilson pumped new life into the pep band by their joining. The freshmen sold 58% of their quota during the NHS candy sale, good for second place in the school.

Radical Sophs Spark Senate

Energetic and original sophomores this year put themselves in the driver's seat of either a classy '71 stick-shift Volkswagen or a luxurious Ford LTD, and by doing so, initiated the first complete drivers education course under the supervision of Brother Larry Siep.

Sophomore talent extended into show business as Scott Duncan, Elton Moore, and Ed Penna formed the illustrious "Top Hats" and performed during the Spirit Week Talent Show. This "shapely" trio provoked roars of approval from classmates and stole the show.

In political matters class governor Scott Duncan, and homeroom senator Kurt Koehler, along with other sophomore representatives, attempted to break down the barrier of junior-senior dominance in the Student Senate to gain equal representation for underclassmen.

Randy Grout and Dave Zimel represented the sophs in varsity football and basketball, respectively. The overwhelming number of sophomores turning out for JV football forced Coach Carrigan to form two teams, one ending the season, 5-3, while the undaunted "Bomb-squad survived with but one loss to Sunset High.

'We're All Gonna Be Prez!'

Standouts in many areas depicted junior involvement at Jesuit. Six senate seats were occupied by juniors who had never before partaken in the student government. Club leadership shifted to that of the juniors this year. Kurt Nelson, organizer of the Chess Club at Jesuit last year, kept the new Metro League team in check. The Art Club exhibited Ed Kaiser as their president; while in another field of art, the Poster Club, Dick O'Brien displayed his talent as foreman. This year junior George LaDu earned the privileged rank of cheerleader, formerly reserved for seniors.

Junior John DeCosta won first prize in the NHS's candy drive by selling $315 worth of candy. The juniors also lead the school, selling 60 per cent of their quota.

Juniors also excelled in sports. Football standouts Tom Wynne, Pete Brock, Kevin Doherty, Mike Metz, and Greg Bauer promoted many of Jesuit's wins. Brock made the all-state squad as the only junior representative. Also both Brock and Wynne represented Jesuit for all-league honors in the Metro circuit. In basketball, the tremendous trio of Bauer, Doherty, and Wynne returned as experienced varsity starters.

SPORTS 71

A GREAT STEAMROLLER MOUNTED A HILL AND MAN DROVE IT, OR AT LEAST, SEEMED TO BE INSIDE.
AS IT ROLLED UP THE INCLINE,
THE MACHINE LOOMED UP
LARGER AND LARGER,
WHILE MAN SHRIVELED,
ONCE HE HAD BEEN ABLE TO STEER, BUT NOW COULD ONLY
DEVIATE THE MACHINE TO AVOID A HORRIBLE CONSEQUENCE;
BUT HE COULD SO RARELY SEE THAT FAR AHEAD.
IT OVERCAME ANIMALS, PLANTS AND
EVEN THE VERY EARTH BENEATH IT SEEMED TORTURED.
AND SOMEWHERE ALONG THE INCLINE
AT SOME SHUNNED, DECISIVE POINT
OR MAYBE IT WAS A GRADUAL PROCESS . . . ANYWAY,
IN A MYRIAD OF CIRCUITS, REGULATIONS, GOALS
IT RAN OVER GOD.

TECHNOLOGY WAS GOD, AND MAN WAS ITS SERVANT.
NO, WAIT; ITS END RESULT. TECHNOLOGY WAS NO LONGER
THE PRODUCT OF MAN, MAN WAS THE PRODUCT OF TECHNOLOGY.
INVENTION WAS OBLITERATED AND IMAGINATION WAS LAID LOW,
AND MAN RAN BERSERK IN A NAMELESS VOID OF CONSEQUENCE;
NO IDENTITY, NO PURPOSE, NO THOUGHT.

"TELL ME, DOCTOR, AND OUR 100 MILLION
TELEVISION, RADIO, PERIODICAL, AND
NEWSPAPER AUDIENCE . . . WHAT HAPPENS
WHEN YOU REACH THE TOP?"
"YOU FALL OFF."

THIS PAGE IS DEDICATED TO CREATION.
IN THE HUMAN WORLD OF NECESSITY, WANT,
GREED,
DAMN THE TOTAL SOLUTION OF NUMBERS, LAWS, TECHNOLOGY, AND RELY INSTEAD, ON MAN, THE THINKER.
